Why We Quarreled

THE MAN'S SIDE

The Puritanical Husband Tells of His Battle Over His Daughters.

By VIRGINIA TERRINE VAN DE WATER.

WHEN I was a child young girls were not allowed the freedom which is their's now. And they were far gentler and less arrogant than is the young person of today.

My daughters are twins—16 years old. I insist that they are still children and should be treated as such. They should have the innocent pleasures suited to their age. And what are those pleasures? My wife asked me once when I made this statement.

"Candy pulls, simple games like dominoes and checkers, walking or driving parties and picnics—always in the daytime, and always with a mature chaperon along. That's the way my sisters were treated. And you were brought up in the same way," I supplemented, remembering suddenly how strict Irene's mother was with her.

My wife laughed as I enumerated the various amusements I considered proper.

"Imagine a modern, up-to-date girl satisfied with that kind of entertainment!" she jeered. "Why, they outgrow dominoes and checkers by the time they are ten years old. Walking and riding parties have gone out of fashion. As to picnics, they are well enough in their proper season, but they are very elaborate affairs nowadays, and are only possible in summer at any rate. Even in your day picnics were not given in mid-winter, my dear."

I saw that she thought my contentions ridiculous and I ceased my tirade. "You may sneer if you like," I said, "but I do not consider the parties our

Simple Way to End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv.

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW IT THROUGH HAIR

It becomes beautifully soft, wavy abundant and glossy at once.

Save your hair! All dandruff goes and hair stops coming out.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cream" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be a wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it. If you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, you are assured.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.—Adv.

EFFORT TO HAVE TURKEYS SOLD THROUGH LOCAL SHOPS

Valley turkey raisers are to be brought to the next Monday at Clint by county farm instructor A. G. Graham, in an effort to form an association to market their turkeys for Thanksgiving and the Christmas holidays in a more systematic manner than that in the past. Graham is having the valley growers peddle their turkeys to the consumers. Mr. Graham will make an effort to have them place their turkeys with local butchers and grocers. Then, if there is a sufficient supply for the local trade, the local dealers will not bring in turkeys from out of town. In the past, many of the valley farmers have peddled their birds and local dealers, in retaliation, have ordered their stocks of birds from out of town.

Nothing so delicious as Sulzberger's Malted Ham and Bacon. "Deliciously Different" prepared in your favorite way.—Adv.

Safe Home Treatment for Objectionable Hairs

The electric needle is not required for the removal of hair or fuzz, for which the use of plain gelatine the most stubborn growth can be quickly banished. A paste is made with water and a little of the powder, then spread over the hairy surface. In about 2 minutes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple treatment not only removes the hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone.—Adv.

Their Married Life

Warren Explains About the Beautiful Girl He Took Out To Dinner and Helen Is Satisfied.

HELEN was very quiet as Helen drove them down to the station. She was thankful that Warren's father and mother had planned to stay over night with Carrie—somehow she did not feel equal to standing Warren's mother that night.

After they had said good-by and Fred had the station, Warren entered a few general remarks. Helen replied in a desultory manner, finally he turned to her abruptly and said:

"There's no need of your acting this way," he remarked. "You act as though you didn't trust me."

Helen turned to him, her eyes raised to his face. "Don't you think your whole manner convicted you?" Surely there is nothing that I have said."

"You might know how I would act before my mother and Carrie. If she would state any belief, I would talk about the affair outside."

Any other time Helen would have rejoiced at Warren's remark. But she could not remember had ever said anything about Carrie even when she had been most insulting. But in the night Helen knew that Warren had an axe to grind. First of all he wanted to renege himself in her good graces, afterward there would be plenty of time to retract.

"Fred's a fool," he commented, "hurting out a thing like that; any one would have known better."

"Fred has been very good to me all ways," Warren said. Helen quietly turned to him and said:

"You may as well say as much for Carrie," but she refrained.

"He has no tact," Helen remarked.

"Perhaps not, but the whole thing was bound to come out sometime."

"The whole thing? You act as though there was something terrible that I am concealing."

"I'm glad that there isn't," was all Helen said.

The train came in at that moment and Helen helped her on. Inwardly she was amused even though she dreaded to hear about the real facts. At her rate Warren would tell her the truth.

After they were seated he turned to her voluntarily.

"I suppose you will be thinking all manner of things unless I tell you," he remarked.

"Of course, I should like to hear what you have to tell me," she said. Afterward she wondered at herself. At another time she would not have been so calm.

"You'll find that there was nothing to raise all this fuss about," Helen waited for him to begin.

"The girl was a stenographer, no one you know," at Helen's look of surprise.

"I thought it couldn't be Miss Field," Helen had always made an effort to know Warren's associates, and they had always been girls she could trust. Her air of quiet conviction was not unnoted by Warren.

"This girl didn't do anything wrong," he said. "You needn't speak of her that way."

"I'm sure I didn't mean to speak of her that way," Warren said. Helen waited for him to begin.

"Oh, I'll drown, sure! Oh, save me!"

"I'll save you!" cried Peetie, who was Jackie's brother. "I'll have you!"

He was just running toward the hole in the ice through which Jackie had just gone when Uncle Wiggily caught Peetie by the paw.

"Here," cried the rabbit gentleman. "You mustn't go out on the shoal. It will break with you and then there'll be two instead of one, in the water."

"But I want to save my brother," cried Peetie.

"I'll save him for you," exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "I will throw him the end of my long, strong red tippet, that Nurse Jane knit for me. Jackie can catch hold of that in his teeth, and if I hold the other end I can stand safely here on shore and pull him out."

And Uncle Wiggily did. He threw the end of his new knitted scarf to Jackie in the water. The little puppy dog caught the end of the tippet in his teeth, and then with a long pull and a strong pull Uncle Wiggily, Grandpa Goosey and the others hauled Jackie out of water.

So the little puppy dog was saved by Uncle Wiggily's red tippet. Jackie ran home to drink some hot milk, so he wouldn't catch cold, and after that, none of the animal boys slid on such thin ice. So you see even a red tippet may be as useful as a watch chain.

TEXANS RESCUED BY WONDERFUL REMEDY

Find Swift Relief From Allments of Stomach and Bowels With First Dose of Treatment.

Many Texans needlessly suffer from stomach ailments and disorders of the digestive tract which appear to be particularly prevalent in the South. Many others have found a way to health by the use of May's Wonderful Remedy.

The first dose of this remedy proves what it will do.

T. B. GOODEPASTURE, 401 Sabine St., Houston, Texas, writes: "I wrote your treatment last spring. I don't think I will have to take any more."

R. L. RANDALL, Laredo, Texas, writes: "I have just finished my fifth bottle of your treatment and passed several gall stones. Your operation has worked simply wonderfully during my course of treatment."

May's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist or send for it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.—Advertisement.

For Acid Stomachs Use Magnesia

Quickly Stops Sour Burning Feeling and Makes Digestion Painless

The almost universal use of magnesia by physicians and chemists in the treatment of stomach troubles, is due to the fact that it stops food fermentation and neutralizes the acid—the direct cause of nearly all stomach troubles. Of the many forms of magnesia such as oxides, citrates, carbonates, sulphates, the most suitable, safe and efficient, and the one prescribed by leading specialists is hydrated magnesia, a tasteless powder which in a little warm water immediately after eating will instantly neutralize the acid, stop fermentation, and thus insure painless digestion, a tasteless powder which in a little warm water immediately after eating will instantly neutralize the acid, stop fermentation, and thus insure painless digestion, a tasteless powder which in a little warm water immediately after eating will instantly neutralize the acid, stop fermentation, and thus insure painless digestion.

Stomach sufferers and dyspepsia who follow this plan and avoid the use of pepsin, bicarbonate, soda salts, drugs and medicines are invariably astonished to find that the stomach, relieved of the irritating acid and gas, soon regains its normal tone, and can do its work alone without the doubtful aid of artificial digestants.—Adv.

NEW POSTOFFICE BUILDING TO BE STARTED WITHIN 2 YEARS

Registration of baggage of tourists coming out of Mexico will be permitted at this port by the customs officials in the future. This was one of the results of the conference of collectors which was held recently in New York and which was attended by special deputy collector W. W. Carpenter.

Carpenter advised that the custom house here at El Paso would be ready for duty during the entire year. Mr. Carpenter visited the treasury department in Washington and was in El Paso on his return. While in Washington, Mr. Carpenter conferred with the supervising architect's office and was promised a new postoffice building here should be well under way within two years.

Uncle Wiggily's Red Tippet. By HOWARD E. GARIS.

THE NEW RED TIPPET or scarf about his neck, off through the woods started the old rabbit gentleman.

It was a good thing to see the house of Grandfather Goosey Gander to find out how the old gentleman goose was going to vote on woman suffrage that day.

For there was an election in animal land that day, to see whether it was right for the lady animals to eat some of the chocolate cake they baked.

Uncle Wiggily, the old goose gentleman, when Uncle Wiggily asked him, "I'm willing the women folk to have the vote, but I don't like to see a woman eat chocolate cake."

"So am I," said Uncle Wiggily. "I like the ladies, and the more you let 'em have their own way the easier it is for me to go on with my game of Scotch checkers."

So the rabbit gentleman and the goose gentleman played their game. "Well, what in the world are you doing, Nurse Jane?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Counting," replied Miss Fussy Wuzzy.

"Counting what, again?" Mr. Longears wanted to know.

"No—nothing," answered Nurse Jane. "You see, I am making something for you, Wiggily—knitting it, in fact, and in knitting I must get the same number of stitches on each side, so as to come out even."

"Oh, I see," spoke the rabbit gentleman. "If you knit something uneven Aunt Flippity-Flap, the nice old crow lady, might see it and she would get lopsided all at once and fall over."

"That's it," spoke Nurse Jane. "Nineteen, twenty, twenty-one, twenty-two. There it's all done and I can make a pretty bow out of it."

"What's all done?" asked Uncle Wiggily, curious like and as if he were expecting something.

"A new, red-woolen tippet or necker-scarf, I have knit for you," explained the muskrat lady. "You know it is cold weather, since Jack Frost has come, and I have seen you wrapping your ears around your throat lately, to keep warm."

"Yes, I have done that," spoke the rabbit gentleman.

"Well, you won't have to do that any more, now that I have knit this red tippet for you," said the muskrat lady. "Here it is—a regular scarf, to bundle about your throat."

"A very kind," Uncle Wiggily said, as he took the long red knit tippet in his paw. "It will do most famously to put around my throat when I go out and I am cold. I will immediately—just means right away—if you will kindly fasten my tie. I'll wear my new red tippet for the first time."

"I'm glad you like it," the muskrat lady remarked. Then she fixed Uncle Wiggily's tie, and a little later, with a snap and a click, she fastened his new red tippet.

"Just one more slide!" barked Jackie Row Wow.

He took a long run and then slid across the ice. Then all at once he bounded:

"Crack! crack! crack! Bur-r-r-rat! Bur-r-rat!"

"Oh, the ice is breaking! The ice is breaking!" cried Sammie Littlebit, scrambling for shore.

All the animal boys and girls reached the solid land except Jackie Row Wow. He broke through the ice and was bobbing about in the cold water.

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" cried Jackie, "I'm drowning!"
